Your Support Makes a Difference

In the movie Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade, guided only by a mysterious Map with No Names, Indiana Jones risks life and limb to find the legendary Holy Grail.

A Map with No Names was recently unearthed on our very own Mountain Shadows campus and, while it may not lead to the Grail, untold treasures may be found.

Looking at the map, the face of anyone familiar with Mountain Shadows will light up. The homes, Mary Triplet Park, the vans, the residents...they are all there. It is the life of the campus this map captures so eloquently.

At the heart of the map is Karen, collecting the mail as she does every day, wearing her signature beanie.

Karen was born with a malignant brain tumor, which was removed when she was 18 months old. Since then, she has relied on a shunt to drain excess fluid away from her brain. As a result, like all of Mountain Shadows residents she is intellectually disabled.

Her early school years were hard. She was picked on and struggled to find her place among her peers.

It was Karen's decision to live at Mountain Shadows. Her best friend Betsy lived there. While Karen's parents were skeptical this would be permanent, she quickly found a new home and has lived here for 20 years.

When asked what she loves about Mountain Shadows, Karen is quick to respond: She loves the companionship. They go places. They do things. She's around people like her. She feels safe and comfortable there.

Like her placement on the map Karen represents the heart of Mountain Shadows.

Karen is one of the most caring and optimistic people you will meet. Armonie, the QIDP who found the map shares how Karen is always there to brighten her day. Karen loves making her cards. One really hit Armonie in the heart. It said simply, "Thank you for everything you do for me and Willow House". And it made all the difference in the world. This is what makes Karen special. Her parents, of course, would agree. She can brighten any rainy day and is simply the most loving person. The heart of Mountain Shadows.

It is for residents like Karen we hold the Annual Fall Classic, now in its 30th year. Funds raised help ensure we can provide them with the very best care, special outings and treats they deserve, now and into the future.
